
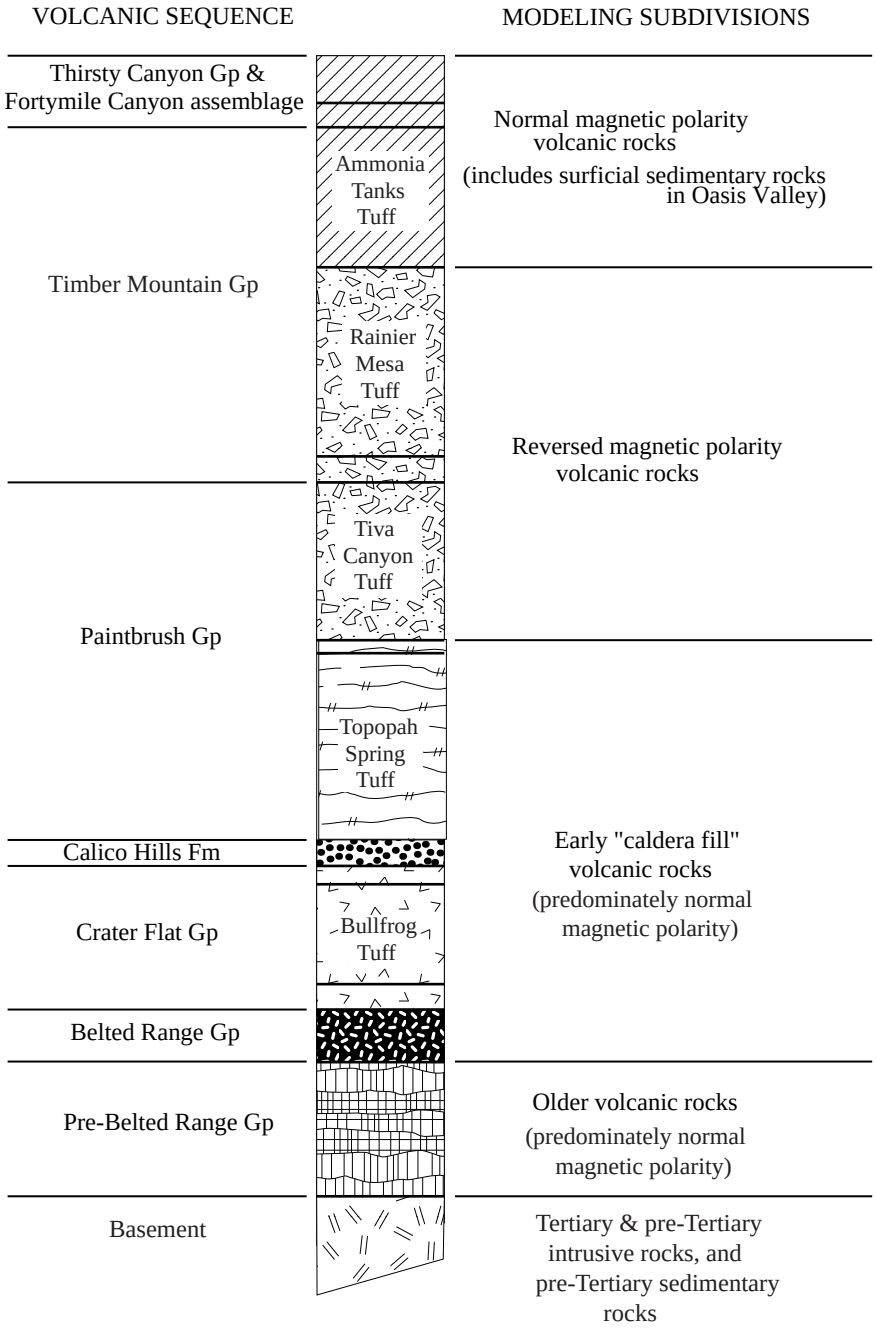

Figure 2. Generalized volcanic stratigraphy of the study area. Unit patterns are the same as shown in our geologic interpretations of the geophysical models (figs, 7, 9, and 11-15). Horizontal lines in the column denote unit boundaries within the larger volcanic groups. Only the names of the major stratigraphic subdivisions are shown on the column. Unit thicknesses schematically depict the erupted magma volumes as estimated by Sawyer and others (1994).